MICHIGAN NONPROFIT ASSOCIATION ANNOUNCES YOUTH LEADERSHIP & SERVICE CAMP

Conference for High School Students Interested in Community Impact

LANSING, Michigan – Michigan Nonprofit Association (MNA), a state-wide membership organization serving the nonprofit sector, today announced the start of this year's Youth Leadership and Service Camp.

MNA's Youth Leadership and Service Camp is an annual conference that brings together 100 high school students to develop and design their own community-based social impact projects. During the 2.5 days of the camp, students will participate in interactive workshops and service projects.

Speakers for this year's camp include Shawn Blanchard, Director of Youth Services for Detroit, Laymon Hicks, a motivational speaker from Florida, and Raise it Up!, a youth spoken word group from Flint.

"The Youth Leadership and Service Camp is an incredible opportunity for aspiring leaders," said Nellie Tsai, Director of the LEAGUE Michigan. "These students will have the chance to not only learn to lead, but give back to their communities as well."
